PROMISES OF GOLD

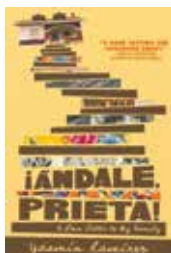

by José Olivarez

ORDER # 587310

In this bilingual poetry collection, Mexican American poet Jose Olivarez examines the many facets of love. “How many bad lovers,” he asks, “have gotten bad poems? . . . No disrespect to romantic love—but what about our friends?” It is those non-romantic relationships, he writes, that remind us how abundant love is. As the son of immigrants, Olivarez also examines the American dream and how his parents’ pursuit of it affected them. He writes of its presence and absence in their lives, cleverly weaving family history with tales of heartbreak, Latinx pop culture references, and more. Olivarez has crafted a poetry collection that is humorous, heartbreaking, and thoughtful all in one—and as complex as love itself.
