NEW OKANOGAN LIBRARIAN HIRED

NCW Libraries has hired a new branch librarian in Okanogan..

Sara McVay began her new job earlier this month. She previously served as head librarian at NCW Libraries' Tonasket branch library for eight years.

McVay grew up in Okanogan County, primarily in Omak and Tonasket. She started working as an assistant librarian at Omak Public Library, where she used to attend story time as a child. McVay said with the move to Okanogan, she has now worked at all three libraries she frequented in her childhood.

"I remember visiting the Okanogan Library as a kid," she said. "Nadine was the librarian back then, and she was a superstar to us kids. I remember attending one summer library program on the front lawn where we were introduced to Thai language and traditions. I remember the wonder that I felt and amazement that the library was the door to many magical places."

In addition to reading, McVay enjoys drawing, painting, spending time with family, training her two large dogs, and doing genealogical research.

"I'm happy to start this new chapter with NCW Libraries as the Okanogan Librarian," she said. "I look forward to starting some programs at the branch, including story times."

NCW Libraries invites you to visit the Okanogan Library and welcome Sara back to the community.
